MICROELECTRONICS INDUSTRIAL PARK OF TEDA DID A GOOD JOB ON INVESTMENT ABSORPTION IN THE FIRST HALF OF 2008

In the first half of 2008, the Microelectronics Industrial Park of TEDA has done a good job on investment absorption, making new breakthroughs in improving the quantity and quality of investment. In the first half of this year, investors made 137 million dollars of investment within the Park, among which three companies added their investments and another three new ones were registered. The Park has completed the task for performance appraisal and investment introduction plan of this year ahead the schedule. At present, the Park has attracted altogether 98 enterprises, with a total investment of 1.34 billion dollars, and seen an investment density of nearly 1,400 dollars/m<sup>2</sup>, taking a leading position among other Chinese industrial parks.

First, focusing on Samsung Telecom Technology, the Park implemented the strategy of investment increase and production expansion and promoted mobile phone-related companies to increase investment. Such three key companies as Samsung Telecom, Samsung SDI Mobile Display and P&Tel added 126 million dollars investment. Second, Rohm has started to implement its strategy of investment increase and production expansion and will add 25 million dollars of investment, bringing its total investment to 270 million dollars. With new production lines of large scale ICs, the company in Tianjin will become the largest production base of Rohm worldwide. Third, the R&D center of Hyundai Hi-Tech Electronics of South Korea has settled down in the Park and will start its operations soon. The Center will provide technical support for Rohm's global production. In June Hyundai Hi-Tech Electronics added 3.5 million dollars of investment to set up a R&D center of high-end auto electronics products in the Park. Two years later the company will have a total investment of 10 million dollars and a 200-person R&D team, and become a largest R&D center of Hyundai Autonet outside South Korea. Fourth, it has been confirmed that China Samsung Electronics R&D and Certification Center will be located in the Park and start its project construction in the second half of this year, with its investment up to 10.7 million dollars. Its future annual expenditure on R&D will reach 10 million dollars. After its completion, the Center will provide technical support and certification for all electronics products made by Samsung in China. Fifth, major progress has been made on the remaining problems about the factory building of Hyundai Electronics Multimedia. After rounds of coordination, the company's original equipment in the factory building is being dismantled. In July the factory building will be ready for use. (Tr. by Chen Yu)

THE SECOND EXPRESSWAY BETWEEN BEIJING AND TIANJIN OPEN TO TRAFFIC

As the second expressway linking Beijing and Tianjin, the main lane of the Beijing-Tianjin Expressway (Tianjin Section) was officially open to traffic recently. With its completion, the expressway will alleviate the traffic congestion on the Beijing-Tianjin-Tanggu Expressway and facilitate the transportation from the TBNA to Beijing and other districts and counties of Tianjin. Besides, the route location and direction of third expressway between Beijing and Tianjin has been fixed.

The Beijing-Tianjin Expressway (Tianjin Section) project contains the main lane and linking-up roads. The expressway starts from Beitang Town of the Tanggu District, the TBNA, goes through such districts and counties as Tanggu, Dongli, Beichen, Ninghe, Wuqing, etc. and ends in Gaocun Village of the Wuqing District (on the border of Beijing and Tianjin). With the 101.8 km main lane and 49.426 km linking-up roads, the Beijing-Tianjin Expressway is the largest high-grade highway project in Tianjin.

The Beijing-Tianjin Expressway in the north almost parallels the Beijing-Tianjin-Tanggu Expressway in the south. For the more efficient and convenient use of the new expressway, four special linking-up roads are built to connect the expressway with the Beijing-Shanghai Expressway, the Beijing-Tianjin Highway, the Tianjin-Hangu Highway, and TEDA (and Dongjiang Free Trade Port Zone). After the Beitang Station in the TBNA, the expressway will be divided into
